

Botswana AC DC Integrated UPS Power Supply

Article Overview

AC/DC integrated UPS systems provide continuous power by combining mains input with battery backup, featuring automatic charging, battery protection, and monitoring capabilities.

Key Features

Integrated Battery Management: These UPS units include a professional battery management system that charges and monitors an external lead-acid battery, ensuring a complete DC-UPS solution without additional components (TracoPower) .

Input and Output:

- AC input powers the system and charges the battery.
 - DC output is supplied by the battery during mains failure, with typical outputs such as 12 V or 24 V DC depending on the model (TracoPower, Rockwell Automation) .
 - Maximum output currents can range from 0.5 A to 1.0 A for smaller units, with higher-capacity models supporting up to 10 A (Rockwell Automation) .
- Battery Charging and Protection:
- Constant current charging method, typically 1 A, with automatic tapering as the battery reaches full charge.
 - Temperature-compensated charging adjusts the end-of-charge voltage to extend battery life.
 - Protection against deep discharge and short circuits, often via a built-in fuse (TracoPower)
