

Burkina Faso Fiber Optic Channel Brands

Article Overview

The main fiber optic providers in Burkina Faso are Bridge Fiber Solutions (BFS), Onatel, Orange Burkina Faso, and CanalBox, offering a mix of public infrastructure and private connectivity services.

Key Fiber Optic Providers

Bridge Fiber Solutions (BFS) BFS is the operator responsible for managing and commercializing the public high-speed fiber infrastructure installed by the Burkinabé government. It provides services such as capacity leasing, dark fiber rental, wavelength leasing, duct rental, and internet access. BFS primarily serves enterprises, public institutions, and intercity connectivity, and is a subsidiary of Telecel Faso . Its network also connects Burkina Faso to neighboring countries like Côte d'Ivoire, Niger, and Mali, supporting regional digital integration . Onatel Onatel, the national telecommunications operator, entered the fiber optic segment in 2020. It offers fiber connectivity to homes and businesses, leveraging its established infrastructure to provide high-speed internet, teleworking solutions, and HD TV services . Orange Burkina Faso Orange recently launched its fiber optic services for both individuals and businesses in Ouagadougou. The company emphasizes high-quality, stable internet connections suitable for multiple devices, videoconferencing, home automation, and online gaming. Orange's entry increases competition in the market and complements its existing mobile 4G network . CanalBox (Group Vivendi Africa) CanalBox, operated by GVA, provides fiber optic services targeting residential and business customers. It focuses on affordable, high-speed internet and value-added services, joining Onatel and Orange in expanding fiber access across the country
