

Coaxial cables are more expensive than optical fibers

Article Overview

Coaxial cables typically range from $5 to $50 depending on length and type, while fiber optic cables range from $0.25 to $13.50 per foot depending on type, grade, and installation complexity.

Coaxial Cable Pricing

Coaxial cables, commonly used for TV, internet, and audio connections, vary in price based on length, shielding, and connector type. Typical retail prices include:

- Short cables (3-6 ft): $5-$15
- Medium cables (25-50 ft): $10-$30
- Longer or specialized cables (100 ft or more): $40-$70
- Popular types include RG6, RG59, and RG58, with quad-shielded RG6 often preferred for high-speed internet and 4K TV setups .
- Coaxial splitters, couplers, and amplifiers range from $6 to $35 depending on functionality . Retailers like Best Buy, Home Depot, Lowe's, and Amazon offer a wide selection, with prices influenced by brand, shielding, and indoor/outdoor rating .

Fiber Optic Cable Pricing

Fiber optic cables, used for high-speed data transmission, are priced based on fiber type (single-mode vs multimode), construction (armored, plenum, indoor/outdoor), and installation method. Key pricing details include:...
