

Concealing or hiding home electrical distribution boxes

Article Overview

You can hide your electrical distribution box using decorative covers, furniture, plants, or custom DIY solutions while ensuring safety and accessibility.

Safety First

Before concealing your electrical box, it's crucial to maintain clearances required by the National Electrical Code (NEC). The working space in front of the panel must be at least 36 inches deep, 30 inches wide, and 6 feet 6 inches high. Any cover must be non-permanent and easily removable without tools to allow emergency access or maintenance .

Indoor Concealment Ideas

- Artwork or Murals: Hang a framed painting, tapestry, or mural over the box. Use hinges or magnetic catches so it can swing open easily .
- Mirrors: A large standing or wall-mounted mirror can hide the panel while enhancing room aesthetics .
- Curtains or Fabric Panels: Lightweight curtains or fabric screens can be placed in front of the box for a quick, removable solution .
- Furniture: Place a bookshelf, cabinet, or decorative console in front of the box. Ensure it is movable for easy access .
- DIY Covers: Build a custom wooden or lightweight frame that matches your wall finish. This can blend seamlessly with your decor while remaining functional .
- Pegboards or Bulletin Boards: Use a pegboard to camouflage the box and provide...
