

Democratic Republic of Congo DRC Convergence Switch Manufacturer

Article Overview

Key manufacturers and suppliers of convergence switches and industrial network equipment in the DRC include SorasTech, Walton Electrical, ACTOM, and ENGELEC-RDC Sarl.

SorasTech

SorasTech provides industrial-grade optical fiber media converters and network switches designed for harsh environments such as mining and telecom operations in the DRC. Their products feature high-temperature resilience, galvanic isolation, and robust surge immunity, making them suitable for remote mining installations in Lubumbashi, Kolwezi, and Kinshasa. SorasTech switches support SFP slots for versatile optical distance configurations and multi-camera CCTV systems, enabling dense client connectivity while minimizing infrastructure costs .

Walton Electrical

Wenzhou Walton Electrical Co., Ltd. supplies high-quality electrical switches with copper contacts and silver alloy points, engineered to withstand voltage fluctuations, dust, humidity, and industrial impacts common in Congolese mining regions. Walton offers OEM/ODM services, allowing customization of switch specifications, internal copper thickness, and packaging for local contractors. Their products are widely used in both residential and industrial sectors across Kinshasa, Lubumbashi, and Kolwezi
