

How much does a 2-meter large square pigtail cost

Article Overview

The cost of a 2-meter pigtail varies widely depending on type, material, and connectors, typically ranging from $5 to $50 for fiber optic or electrical pigtails, with additional labor if installation is required.

Fiber Optic Pigtails

Fiber optic pigtails are pre-terminated cables used for splicing or connecting fiber networks. A 2-meter fiber optic pigtail generally costs between $5 and $20 for standard single-mode or multi-mode types, depending on the connector type (LC, SC, ST) and quality standards. Industrial-grade or specialty pigtails may cost more, up to $30-$50 per unit.

Electrical Pigtails

For aluminum or copper wiring pigtails, the cost depends on the wire type, connector, and labor. A 2-meter copper pigtail with standard connectors may cost $2-$5 for materials alone, while labor for installation can range from $25-$150 per hour, with each connection taking 10-20 minutes. If multiple outlets or devices are involved, total costs increase proportionally.
