

Manufacturer of wide-body electrical distribution boxes

Article Overview

Leading manufacturers of wide-body electrical distribution boxes include Weidmüller, Wieland, Schrack Technik, and INDU-ELECTRIC, offering modular, robust, and customizable solutions for industrial and commercial applications.

Key Manufacturers and Offerings

Weidmüller provides flexible distribution boxes designed for decentralized signal and power transmission, with protection up to IP67. Their FieldPower® system combines busbar trunking and standard cables for modular power distribution, supporting pluggable connections and a wide range of configurations, including sensor-actuator and M12 distributors. Wieland Electric specializes in pluggable, decentralized electrical installation solutions. Their distribution boxes accommodate power, signal, and I&C applications, offering robust designs for harsh environments. They comply with IEC 61439 and IEC 61535 standards and support flexible, communication-enabled systems for smart buildings. Schrack Technik offers a broad range of enclosures and distribution boards, from small consumer units to low-voltage main distribution boards. Their products include plastic, stainless steel, and powder-coated steel enclosures suitable for indoor and outdoor applications, with accessories like air conditioning, lighting, and cable ducts. INDU-ELECTRIC manufactures both mobile and fixed power distribution units, including wide-body and high-capacity PDUs. Their solutions are tailored to specific technical and mechanical requirements, ideal for construction sites, events, and industrial facilities. They provide stackable, portable, and wall-mounted units with high integration capability. Other Industrial Brands su...
