

Rwanda Data Center Rack Prices

Article Overview

In Rwanda, the cost of a data center rack typically starts at around $1,800 per rack for mid-level to high colocation services.

Overview of Pricing in Rwanda

The Rwandan data center market is still emerging, with relatively high prices and limited high-quality capacity. Colocation services, which allow businesses to rent rack space in commercial data centers, are priced at $1,800 or more per rack, depending on the facility and service level. This pricing generally applies to Tier II standard and above facilities, which provide reliable power, cooling, and security for IT equipment. The market is dominated by telco-hybrid facilities, with pure carrier-neutral data centers only recently entering the country.

Factors Affecting Rack Costs

- Rack Size and Type: Standard full racks (42U) cost more than half or quarter racks due to the additional space and equipment capacity.
- Power Requirements: Higher power density or redundant power circuits increase costs because of electricity consumption and cooling needs.
- Bandwidth and Connectivity: Additional network capacity or premium connectivity options can raise the monthly cost.
- Facility Tier and Services: Higher-tier facilities (Tier III or above) with better uptime guarantees, security, and support services command higher prices.
