

The highest-level optical cable company

Article Overview

Prysmian Group is widely recognized as the world's leading optical cable company, dominating global fiber optic and energy cable markets.

Overview of Prysmian Group

The Prysmian Group, headquartered in Italy, is the largest fiber optic and cable manufacturer globally, with a comprehensive product portfolio spanning telecommunications, energy transmission, and industrial applications . The company operates in over 50 countries and owns 108 manufacturing plants, producing turnkey systems for both energy and telecom sectors . Prysmian's cables are known for high tensile strength, low attenuation, and fire-resistant properties, making them ideal for long-haul networks, submarine systems, and smart city infrastructure .

Technological Leadership

Prysmian leads in submarine and terrestrial optical cable systems, supporting data transmission capacities exceeding 200 Tbps . The company invests heavily in innovation, including bend-optimized fibers for 5G networks and sustainable manufacturing practices that reduce emissions and incorporate recycled materials . Its solutions cover aerial, duct, FTTH cables, and optical distribution networks, ensuring compatibility across complex digital infrastructures .

Global Impact

Prysmian's global reach and scale allow it to support large-scale national and intern...
