

What are some cold-joint manufacturers in South Asia

Article Overview

Yamuna Densons and 227 Enterprise are leading cold-joint manufacturers in South Asia, offering cold shrink cable joints and VRF copper joints for industrial applications.

Key Manufacturers

1. Yamuna Densons (India) Yamuna Densons is a prominent manufacturer and exporter of cold shrink cable joints, cold shrinkable cable jointing kits, and power cable jointing kits in India since 1973 . Their products cover a wide range of voltage grades (11kV, 22kV, 33kV) and include straight-through and transition cable joints for XLPE, PILC, and PVC cables. They also produce cable jointing compounds and accessories, ensuring reliable performance in underground and high-voltage applications . Their offerings are widely used by electrical utilities, industrial projects, and infrastructure developers. 2. 227 Enterprise Pvt. Ltd. (India) 227 Enterprise specializes in VRF copper joints and components for HVAC&R systems . They manufacture high-precision Y-joints, branch piping kits, and assemblies compatible with R410 and R410A refrigerants. Their products are trusted by OEMs, MEP consultants, and professional installers across South Asia and globally, particularly for VRF/VRV air conditioning systems. 3. Global Cold Shrink Tubing Leaders with Asian Presence While primarily global, companies like 3M, TE Connectivity (Raychem), and Woer have a strong presence in the Asian market . They provide cold shrink tubing and jointing solutions for power distribution, telecommunications, and industrial applications. These companies are known for high-quality insulation, environmental sealing, and compliance with international standards....
